To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing this to discuss my experience with cold sores and Dr. Rosquists K4 laser.

I have suffered with stress-induced cold sores for the last five or six years. I typically get 3 to 4 a year. Historically, I have used a combination of acyclovir (oral medicine) and denavir (topical cream) to treat this condition. As with most people I know, this combination, at best, can only shorten the time frame and reduce the size of the outbreak. They did help to minimize the overall effect, usually taking from 3 weeks down to two weeks and a giant sore to a still noticeable size sore. Until I tried Dr Rosquists laser, nothing could stop an outbreak altogether.

The first time we used the laser, I was in the early stage of getting a cold sore. My lip was swollen and tender and little pustules had started to form under the skin, but had not yet broken the skin. After 4 minutes under a warm pleasant laser treatment, the immediate result was dramatically decreased swelling. The next morning it was completely gone! The second treatment followed the exact path.

I feel like I have finally found a cure that allows me to skip an outbreak altogether. And I have hope that with continued treatment, I may be able to heal to the point of not getting them at all.

Five days ago Thursday, January 22nd, I was playing basketball with my team at the Apex Alarm Corporate building. Late in the game I went up for a hard rebound and jammed my right ring finger pretty well. I kept playing in the game, just shrugged off the pain. The next day I went to just shoot around the basketball, that's when I finally realized how badly my finger hurt; just shooting the ball brought me pain. My finger at this point was very swollen. Right after playing my friend and I went to Dr. Rosquists chiropractic office. We both got a back adjustment, then I showed him my swollen finger, and he explained to me about the K-Laser and how that would speed up healing and take the pain away, so of course I wanted to experience that on my swollen finger. When the laser was being applied to my finger, it was a warm feeling that felt good on my finger. When he was done about two minutes later the pain was gone! With the pain gone and the healing increased I was very pleased with the K-Laser abilities. My finger was still swollen so the Doctor suggested going home and putting my finger on ice, I did just that when getting home. Over the weekend my finger healed, pain very minimal. Today my finger is 100% healed, no pain, no swelling ! I even played basketball last night with my team and pain was 100% gone. K-laser works great!

To Whom It May Concern;

I have been seeing Bryan Rosequist for a few years now treating a sore back and sore neck...conditions that have inherently existed with me my whole life. With Chiropractic manipulation, ultra sound, muscle stem....those treatments periodically allow me to live a normal life and I appreciate the kind care I receive as well as the personal attention that Bryan gives.

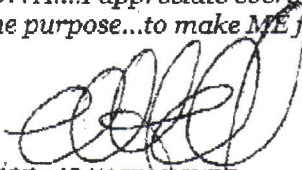

For the past six to eight months my lower back pain has escalated to some very severe muscular aching that has not been helped at all by chiropractic manipulation or muscle electric stimulation. Bryan upped the treatment to some DT work but that also did not help the situation. Heat, Ice...nothing worked and my ability to sleep at night diminished.

Enter the Laser! In the very FIRST treatment...my body responded to where I slept through the night. I thought it was a fluke. Wrong! After (5) treatments my pain went from a 10 (if the chart would have gone higher I would have put 20 or 30...and I have a high pain threshold mind you!) to a ZERO! I'm like a kid again....running, sprinting, exercising like a maniac....thinking about being a walk-on at BYU again! The Laser treatments have been amazing. Now when I exercise or run or do whatever comes with my job, I have muscle soreness which is typical...but that's just it...it's typical...and I feel wonderful! THANKS BRYAN.

So for the last couple of years, the pain in my neck...as the base of the skull...has intensified to where the normal care is not working as well. This condition is a result of football as well as a fall I suffered right on the base of my skull when I was 10...kind of arthritic. Now that my back treatments are done with the laser, we are going to use it on my neck....

Thank you to Bryan Rosequist and his staff....past and present.....Callie, Erin, Danny, Dr. A....I appreciate everyone that has taken a genuine interest into my life with one purpose...to make ME feel better!
